The Bondage of Drink.

You think I love it? If this nerveless hand
Could gain immortal strength this very hour
I'd sweep the whole hellish traffic from the land,
And crush its blighting, maddening, nightmare power.
Yea, now, with my latest, dying breath,
I'll curse the thing that drags me down to death.

Love it? I loathe it! Yet I drink and drink,
And hate my bondage with a loathing hate,
And hate myself as through the town I link.
The pledge? No, no! Too late—too late!
No pledge! I've tried it twice—a waste of breath!
Too late! There's no release for me but death.

It's bad enough to drink; but not to drink
Doth such a train of ghastly horrors wake
As in one hour would leave me dead, I think.
Ah, keep away, ye fiends, for pity's sake!
The very thought of them effects my brain,
My end will be when they shall come again.

Love rum? I'd love to hold my head up high
And breathe God's air a free and fearless man
And look with undimmed eyes on earth and sky,
With steady nerve to do and head to plan;
I'd love to grapple trials as they come
In manly fashion, brave and strong. Love rum?

If only I could come into some land
Where no drink is, God knows how willingly
I'd fight these dreadful torments of the damned
That clutch the scul of him who would be free!
But marshal up those grizzly shapes of woe
To fall again as twice before? No, no!

Ah, if I might have known how it would be
In those old college days so wild and gay,
When first I drank in youthful revelry!
How easy then to put the cup away!
A mother's hope and joy I was till then;
Now see me trembling—ah! Those eyes again!

Back, fiery eyes, to hell, where you belong,
I'll drink you down—what blood? Drink blood?
Help! Help! They come, a hideous, devilish throng!
Back, get ye back! They'll toss me in the flood!
Long, crooked hands are crawling in my hair!
Is this the end! Ha, ha! Too late for prayer.

HOW HE DONE IT.

BY W. H. W.

There are many courtships worth narrating, while a greater majority are conducted in such a business-like way as to be void of all romance—so unlike human nature that a recital would not be pleasing. The one we are about to disclose is of the romantic order, and will amuse the young folks generally.

A party consisting of six individuals, men of wealth and leisure, had gone out for a boat-ride on one of the Western rivers. The evening was mild and sunny. The boat was one of grace and beauty, and would carry twice as many as were on board beside the men who did the rowing. It had a neat little deck above the rowers, with cushioned seats, upon which the six men were reclining, and seeming to be very happy. Two of the party were married, one of whom was John Foster, a jolly young fellow. John had been singing songs and telling stories, to the great pleasure of the boys. At length one of the party addressed him thus:

"See here, John, I have heard your courtship and marriage spoken of as being a romantic affair, but never heard the particulars. Come, old fellow a little more fun at your expense willl make things lively."

"Well, boys, I often laugh over my experience, and think no man ever drew a longer breath than I did after the minister pronounced us man and wife. My father-in-law, Mr. Hamlin, was a widower, and thought very handsome by the ladies. He resided some three miles from my father's farm, on one of his own. He had not lived here long, however, and when I came home from school, I heard all the boys talking of "pretty Nellie Hamlin." Mr. Hamlin came to see us very often, and never failed inviting me to see him. At length I decided on going over, more to see 'pretty Nellie" than any one else. I was treated in the most hospitable manner each time I called, and began to feel interested in Nellie. I think he noticed this. I supposed it would please him, but on the contrary he began to be more reserved and treated me coolly. It was not long until I was in love with his daughter, and had gotten up a little courtship, when he told me to "please cease calling." I became angry and told him he should do the same. He did not come to our house any more, and I did not go over to see Nellie for about two weeks. But who can fight against a love that is stronger than the love of life? I wrote her a note to meet me, when we decided to meet once every week, clandestinely, of course, at her house or in a neighboring grove. This worked well for a long time, as Mr. Hamlin was in the habit of spending Saturday evening from home, and I made it suit to see Nellie in his absence. She could not ascertain where her father went, but was glad to see him leave home on that evening. I would conceal myself about the barn till Mr. Hamlin would leave, when Nellie and I would have the house to ourselves. I'll tell you, boys, I never had such a happy time. At last I discovered where Mr. Hamlin was spending his evenings, and in a way I didn't like too well. You see I went over a little too early. It is natural for lovers to be on time, and often ahead of time. I had to remain hidden until Mr. H. would be gone, so I took shelter in a carriage, a double-seated affair. The curtains were all closed down, and it seemed just the place. Soon after I heard him talking to his "Billy horse," and I expected him to be off in a few moments, but fate worked against me this time. My heart ran up into my throat when I saw Mr. H. hitching "Billy" to the carriage. What to do I could not tell. I had to confess to myself that I was afraid of him. He sprang upon the seat and started off at a fearful rate. I felt a good deal like praying, for I knew I would fare badly if he saw me there. He would laugh to himself, and then give Billy a cut with the whip. I began to think he was going to see some lady—but who was it? He might possibly drive me twenty miles from home, and allow me the pleasure of walking back. I passed the time in watching him, and planning how I would get out, when he turned short into a lane which led to the back part of our farm. I now began to fear that he knew I was in the carriage, and was driving me back to what we called "dark hollow," to hang me, or do something to terrify me, but what was my surprise when he stopped at the end of a lane which led into our house, and I saw a lady coming toward us. Almost paralyzed, I recognized the voice of my sister Anna. She was soon by his side, and I'll fall into the water this moment and drown myself, if he didn't put his arms around her and kiss her. I felt like dying from shame and indignation. He who had forbidden me his house, to meet and kiss beautiful sister Anna thus! And she who had ever protested against the practice of kissing, as being altogether wrong and unlady-like, to permit him, a widower, to kiss her. I was so angry, and was nearly drawn double with my cramped condition, but there I had to stay and watch them much against my will. I had never asked Nellie to allow me to kiss her, just because this sister, who was older than me, taught me it was wrong, and now to see her allow this man that privilege, was too much for me. I never had had such a ride in my life, and prayed I might never have another. You need not laugh, boys, but I would rather have been where Nellie was. I could see that "Billy" had been here before, for he did not more than move, and often stopped and nipped at the bushes by the way side. I can tell you that "Billy" had to be his own driver. Mr. Hamlin talked love till I grew sick, but Anna smiled as I had never seen her do, while I was boiling over with rage. True, I was engaged to Nellie, and should respect her father more, but I could not. If I had not been afraid of him, I would have yelled out from anger till he would have jumped over Billy, and thought the last day was at hand, and the trumpet was sounding to resurrect him from the love into which he had fallen. But understand I had to keep quiet. This state of things continued much longer than I have dignity to own. Here we wandered up and down the road, while Billy looked up at the trees, and stopped to listen occasionally at what was going on around him. I never felt more silly, and if it had been my grandmother acting so, I should not have felt worse. I closed my eyes to shut out the sight, but no use; the kissing went on, and I had to hear if not see it. Mr. Hamlin was now as hideous to me as an owl. I heard the promise to meet again next Saturday evening, and saw my sister trip off up the lane. I began to fear it would get daylight, and I would be seen. We had not gone far till I saw Mr. H's. head drop, and knew he was sleeping. I opened the side door quietly and sprang out. I could scarcely walk, but made my way home, thinking I would introduce the kissing subject at the breakfast table. My younger sisters always joined me when teasing Anna. I began the next morning by saying,

"Anna, you should of had some loved one to kiss you awake this morning, as you are late to breakfast."

"Brother," she said, you should not talk so before your sisters, and you know very well there is no man who would do that."

"O yes," I said, "there are enough who would do it.'

"Yes, but I mean I would not think of allowing it. It seems to me you don't think of anything else."

"I doubt, Anna, if you think of anything else," I said.

"No, John, that will do after marriage, not before." I began to fear she was married, and dropped the question. I was now very anxious to see and tell Nellie of my ride. When I told her I omitted the kissing, for I was ashamed of my sister's conduct. She laughed till I began to think it was not so serious a matter after all.—When I told her of their promise to meet the following Saturday evening she said at once,

"We must go with father."

"No," I said.

"Yes, we will, Johnnie, you must let me have my own way in this, dear."

I said no more, but felt very nervous over it all week.

According to promise I was in the carriage at the appointed time, and was soon joined by Nellie. She trembled a good deal when she came, but soon whispered more calmly. The night was even darker than before, and we were soon flying across the country. I was again to see enacted what had made me sick just one week past. If Nellie had known the fate awaiting her she would not have been in that carriage. Mr. H. took the same road, and was soon joined by Anna, whom he addressed as his "darling." I felt Nellie twitch a little, and knew she blushed when her father acted as if he was going to devour my sister. When I saw him acting thus I felt like having revenge in some way. I began to realize that I had a kissable being by my side. I knew it was mean in me to act so, for Nellie dare not make a fuss, and if I was cruel enough to take advantage of her situation, she could not help herself. So, for every kiss he gave my sister I gave his daughter two. I was trying to get even with him on the first ride.

At last the awful moment came. He put his arms around my sister, (mine were around Nellie,) and said:

"My darling, you know how much I love you; at least you try to know, but cannot tell. It surpasses any demonstration I can make; without you I shall be miserable, but with you the happiest man on earth. Anna, will you be my darling wife?"

The answer came so low I could not hear it, but a lover's ear could, and he "thanked heaven," and everything else he could think of, then kissed her. (I kissed somebody twice.)

"Now, my dear," said Anna, "you have not been treating brother John as you should. I hear you do not allow him to see Nellie."

"Oh, yes, he may go to see Nellie."

"Yes, but you promised me once before, and I have heard since then that you still prevent him."

"Noble sister," I thought.

"No, I don't; he may go as often as he wishes. And we will be married in six weeks, pet."

The time was set, and a kiss to seal the bargain. (I took two.) My heart rolled about like a big potato, and I thought it had turned into a drummer boy, when Nellie said:

"Thank you, father, for allowing John to visit me."

Anna screamed, and Mr. H. was out upon the dash of the carriage ready to run away like a man and leave his precious charge.

"Who, or what is it?"

"O! it is John and I. We thought we would take a little ride with you, and since you and Anna are to be married in six weeks, and you have learned to like John so well, you will allow us to get married at the same time. Won't you, father, dear?"

What could he say but "y-e-s?"

From that moment I loved Mr. H. We all live very happy. I still tease Anna about the propriety of kissing, and ask Nellie if she has any liking for the back seat of a carriage. Our young wives fuss a good deal as to which baby is the prettiest, but no matter about that, but I would like to know what relationship those babies sustain to each other.

Reading for the Million.

J. Howard Payne.

A newspaper correspondent in one of his letters from Washington, gives the following brief sketch of one whose name is as little known to the world, as a single emanation of his genius is widely appreciated:

As I sit in my garret here (in Washington) watching the course of great men and the destiny of party, I meet often with strange contradictions in this eventful life. The most remarkable was that of J. Howard Payne—author of "Sweet Home!" I knew him personally. He occupied the rooms under me for some time, and his conversation was so captivating that I have often spent whole days in his apartment. He was an applicant for office at the time—Consul at Tunis—from which he had been removed. What a sad thing it was to see the poor man subjected to the humiliation of office seeking. Of evenings we would walk along the streets, looking into lighted parlors as we passed. Once and a while we saw some family circle so happy, and forming so beautiful a group, that we would both stop—and then pass silently on. On such occasions he would give me a history of his wanderings—his trials, and all the cares incident to his sensitive nature and poverty. "How often," said he once, "I have been in the heart of Paris, Berlin, London, or some other city, and heard persons singing, or the hand organ playing "Sweet Home," without a shilling to buy the next meal or a place to put my head. The world has literally sung my song till every heart is familiar with its melody. Yet, I have been a wanderer from my boyhood. My country has turned me ruthlessly from office—and in my old age I have to submit to humiliation for bread."

Thus would he complain of his hopeless lot. His only wish was to die in a foreign land, to be buried by strangers and sleep in obscurity.

I met him one day looking unusually sad. "Have you got your Consulate?" said I.

"Yes—and I leave in a week for Tunis—I shall never return."

This last expression was not a poetical faith.—Far from it. Poor Payne—his wish was realized. He died at Tunis.—Whether his remains have been brought to his native country I know not. They should be, and if none others will do it let the homeless throughout the world give a penny for the monument to Payne. I knew him and will give him my penny, and for an inscription the following:

HERE LIES J. HOWARD PAYNE.
Author of "Sweet Home."
A wanderer in life—he whose song was sung in every tongue, and found echo in every heart—
NEVER HAD A HOME!
He died in a foreign land!

It is a singular fact that very few persons in America know that the author of "Sweet Home" was an American. You ask nine persons out of ten, even among those who have any knowledge of musical history, they will tell you Sir Henry Bishop or some such person must have the credit. The truth is, this song is almost the only thing that Payne ever d'd which is entitled to remembrance. The author was a maker of melo-dramas and musical plays. "Home, Sweet Home," was a song in one of them. Payne did not remain in the country to see the piece performed, and the first time he ever heard his own song was in the streets of a great European city. Its pathetic appeal to a sentiment which exists in every human bosom gives an immediate echo over the whole world, which has not nor never will die away.

Acheen and the Acheenese.

Many people having read frequent dispatches in the papers about the Acheenese, will be glad to learn where they live. Acheen forms the northwestern portion of Sumatra. It covers an area of 800 geographical square miles, and has 2,000,000 inhabitants belonging to the Maylayan race. The Acheenese are tall, strongly built and of a violent and haughty temperament, though they are much more intelligent and skillful than most of the other inhabitants of Sumatra. They are mostly Mohammedans. The capital has about 8,000 houses and 36,000 inhabitants The country generally is mountainous, but exceedingly fertile; pepper, coffee, cotton, tobacco and vegetables grow freely and produce abundant crops. Gold and precious stones are also found in great quantities. Although part of Sumatra is under the equator, the climate is very moderate. The air is healthy in the mountain districts, but not on the plains or on the coast. Acheen abounds with wild animals—there are elephants, tigers, buffaloes, rhinoceroses and orang-outangs. The latter are never killed by the natives, as they believe the souls of their ancestors have passed into these animals. Among the allies of the Acheenese are the Battas, a cheerful people, who are cannibals, and always take salt and lemon juice when they go to war, so as to be able to regale themselves on the flesh of their dead enemies.

Up a Tree.

One night, recently, young Mullen, of New Castle, who feared that the lady he loved was entertaining an admirer, determined to climb a tree in the yard, from which he could see into the sitting-room in the second story, where the young woman was supposed to be. Just as he got himself fixed in a comfortable position commanding the window, some one upon the inside pulled the curtain down. Then Mullen made up his mind to descend. It was very dark, but just as he began to slide down the trunk, Mullen heard a dog barking furiously beneath, and, looking down, he saw a huge animal capering about, apparently very eager to nip Mr. Mullen's legs. Then Mullen suddenly climbed up the tree again, and endeavored to drive the dog off, but the more he spoke to the brute, the more it danced around and barked. Then Mullen came down as low as he dared, and tried to coax the animal, but this only made him hop about and howl more furiously than ever. So it became apparent that Mullen would have to spend the night in the tree. He fixed himself as comfortably as he could in a crotch of the limbs, and kicked his legs, and moved his arms, to keep himself from freezing to death. Several times, when he thought the dog was asleep, he attempted to descend, but each time the brute awoke, and began to caper about. By the time daylight arrived, Mullen was so benumbed with cold that he could hardly use his hands; but, as the sky grew brighter, he leaned over to examine his persecutor, and, to his amazement, he found that it was his own dog, which, unknown to him, had followed him to the tree, and had barked and capered only to express his delight at the prospect of Mullen coming down and going home. The suddenness with which Mullen reached the ground is said to have been remarkable, and the language used by him bad. He has some of the rheumatism which he got on that night in his bones yet.

Forestry.

Few persons have any idea of the immense extent of land required to grow trees for building and other purposes. In Europe alone 500,000,000 acres of land are devoted to woodland. Norway and Sweden have about 80,000,000 of acres covered with trees. Indigenous to the country are the Norway spruce, fir, maple, Scotch pine and beach. The introduction of foreign trees has been attended with success, and the oak, pine and walnut are reported as growing to very fair dimensions. Spain and Portugal, though their woods are little known in commerce, set apart about 6,000,000 acres for tree-growing. Germany has taken better care of her forests than other nations, and has replenished her woodlands with fresh stock. In the 50,000,000 acres of timber-growing land, she possesses nearly all the important varieties of wood which are found. To Italy we are indebted for very excellent walnut, but her 5,000,000 acres also produce fir, pine, oak and poplar. Neither Turkey nor Greece are of much importance as wood-producing countries, but that they might be is gathered from the fact that they have 10,000,000 acres under forest cultivation. Denmark, producing oak, Norway spruce, fir, etc., has 500 000 acres of woodland. Although Russia has no system of forestry, she has 300,000,000 acres devoted to timber cultivation. As to British North America, no one can form anything like an accurate estimate of its enormous wealth of timber.—It is roughly computed that there are 900,000,000 acres occupied by timber, or an extent equal to the whole of England a dozen times told. In the large forests of British Columbia are found firs reaching 300 feet in height. The United States possess 569,000,000 acres of forest land.—The great influx of population has led to wanton waste, and the time is not remote when the loss will be severely felt.

First Cost of a Man or Woman.

An economic journal enters into strangely curious calculations as to the "actual cost, in dollars and cents, which a man or woman would be to the world and society by the time he or she got old enough to begin to pay expenses," or to return back to the country what thus far had been expended in rearing their population.

Every baby, it is fair to assume, when properly brought up, costs its parents at least fifty dollars a year, an expense which increases largely as food, clothing, the shelter of a warm home, education, and spending money are required for the growing child. The actual cost, up to the fifteenth year, of each child in this Republic, is certainly not less than one thousand dollars. At that age its labor would be worth its subsistence. Not till it reaches the age of eighteen (and a great many not even then) does it really begin to be productive. For every 100,000 children the nation has to produce six or eight millions of dollars consumed without adding at all to production. To rear that number of children to a productive age certainly costs a hundred millions of dollars, without any profit whatever in return. Herein is the great value of immigration. This great Republic receives into its broad and glorious bosom every day not less than one thousand immigrants from the Old World. Of course two-thirds, perhaps seven-eighths, are adults, ready grown for us by Europe at her cost up to the productive point, when they come to our shores to give us the benefit of their toil. Annually does Europe labor industriously to produce and raise for our Republic, free of cost, more than 300,000 persons, with whom we could not have furnished ourselves at an expense of $300,000. No wonder that we grow rich and prosperous, for the loss of the world is our gain, and all the countries are nursing mothers for ours.

SPECIMEN of heavy writing on the Danbury News: "Thursday evening of last week was a spring evening. Forty thousand screaming demons rode the winds that surged through the streets, crumbling up the hard snow and frozen mud, and blinding pedestrians with the powder. All night long the demons howled, shutters rattled, signs creaked, branches groaned, and shed-doors slammed. All night long the beautiful birds of spring hung their heads and hushed their carols, and all night long the sweet flowers of the gladsome springtime shrank within their petals, and smothered their fragrance in their palpitating bosoms, and boarders screamed for more quilts."

The Gypsy's Warning.

Trust him not, oh gentle lady;
Though his voice be low and sweet.
Heed not him who kneels before thee,
Softly pleading at thy feet.
Now thy life is in its morning;
Cloud not this, thy happy lot;
Listen to the Gypsy's warning;
Gentle lady, trust him not.

Lady, once there lived a maiden,
Young and pure, and like thee, fair,
Yet he wooed, he wooed and won her,
Thrilled her gentle heart with care.
Then he heeded not her weeping,
He cared not her life to save;
Soon she perished—now she's sleeping
In the cold and silent grave.

Lady, turn not from me so coldly,
For I have only told the truth;
From a stern and withering sorrow,
Lady, I would shield thy youth.
I would shield thee from all danger,
Shield thee from the Tempter's snare,
Lady, shun the dark-eyed stranger,
I have warned thee—now beware.

Take your gold, I do not want it,
Lady, I have prayed for this.
For the hour that I might foil him,
And rob him of expected bliss.
Aye, I see thou art filled with wonder,
At my look so fierce and wild,
Lady, in the church-yard yonder,
Sleeps the Gypsy's only child.

Laws Relating to Newspaper Subscriptions and Arrearages.

The following is the law relating to newspapers and subscribers.

1. Subscribers who do not give express notice to the contrary, are considered wishing to continue their subscription.
2. If subscribers order the discontinuance of their periodicals, the publishers may continue to send them until all arrearages are paid.
3. If subscribers neglect or refuse to take their periodicals from the office to which they are directed, they are held responsible until they have settled their bills, and ordered them discontinued.
4. If subscribers move to other places without informing the publishers, and the papers are sent to the former direction, they are held responsible.
5. The Courts have decided that "refusing to take periodicals from the office, or removing and leaving them uncalled for, is prima facie evidence of intentional fraud.
6. Any person who receives a newspaper and makes use of it, whether he has ordered it or not, is held in law to be a subscriber.
7. If subscribers pay in advance, they are bound to give notice to the publisher, at the end of their time, if they do not wish to continue taking it; otherwise the publisher is authorized to send it on, and the subscriber will be responsible until an express notice, with payment of all arrears, is sent to the publisher.

☞ The Civil Rights Bill, as reported by the Senate Committee, passed the Senate at 7.10 o'clock on Saturday morning last, after an all night's session, by a vote of 29 to 18.

It would give us great pleasure to hear that our friend had received the nomination. The election would follow as a matter of course. The General was a faithful soldier during the long years of bloody war, and since his return to private life he has been a zealous and never flagging defender of Republican principles. He is a young man that can be of great advantage to his district in the future, while, if some old stager is preferred, there is no future before him. We are in favor of young men as against inexperienced old men, when the former manifests the necessary stability of character, energy and talent, because there is some chance for an outcome. We hope that the General may be successful, and we feel confident he will make a record that will be alike creditable to himself and his constituents.

☞ Murat Halstead, of the Cincinnati Commercial, delivered on Wednesday, before the Kentucky Press Association, an address, entitled, "The Press and the People." It was a trenchent, practical discussion of the sphere and duty of the press, in dealing with the public issues of the hour. A distinct line of demarkation between the utterances of the paper and those of its advertising patrons, and the use of the advertising columns for all public announcements were urged. He said: "It would be preposterous, in Philadelphia, to hold a public meeting for a religious or political, social or benevolent purpose, without advertising it in the Ledger.—When the Philadelphian wants to know what meetings are to be held, he looks, not to the local column, but to the advertised notices. If he should see a "local" reference to a meeting he would not know whether it was authorized or not; but the regular advertised notice, according to the custom of the city, gives the names and date, hour and place, and is exactly to the point. There is no nousense about it, and it means business. Here is a public policy worthy to be studied and imitated; and if the Philadelphia system were generally adopted, it would save us from many amiable but presumptious demands." To all which we give cheerful assent. "Independent journalism" is, of course, strongly commended, but he is at pains to define what this is. The Tribune, as it was under Greeley, and the Herald under Bennett, if they could have been united in one, would have made an ideal independent journal. The address is clear, terse, practical, and good.

News and Notes from Washington.

Marriage of the President's Daughter—The Young Couple—The Marriage Ceremony—The Guests—The Wedding Breakfast—Presents and Wardrobe—Departure—Accommodations on Shipboard.

WASHINGTON, May 22, 1874.

THE BRIDE AND BRIDEGROOM.

Something out of the usual routine of Washington life gave variety to the attractions and conversation yesterday. It was the marriage of the President's only daughter, and it is noted that this is the third wedding that has occurred at the White House.

When Gen. Grant was called to command in person the Army of the Potomac, his family prepared to leave their Western home, and subsequently followed him to Washington. At that time Miss Nellie was a mere child. She and her three brothers, two of them mere lads, could be seen nearly every pleasant day driving in a small, double-seated, four-wheeled carriage, drawn by two ponies. Soon after this the brothers left the city to complete their education, while Nellie remained with her mother, and pursued her studies in the city. Two years ago, at the age of seventeen, she accompanied the family of Mr. Borie, ex-Secretary of the Navy, on a visit to Europe. Returning she made the acquaintance of her future husband on the passage out. It was a case of love at first sight, followed by a mutual attachment. It is known that when Mr. Sartoris first sought the consent of Miss Nellie's father to visit her with a view to marriage, that the President consented on conditions that Mr. Sartoris would become a citizen and resident of the United States. This was, after correspondence of the father of the young man, made a condition of the marriage with the approval of all concerned, and the young man purchased a choice farm in the Northwest, where he was engaged in making a future home for himself and his future wife. His father was then a member of the British Parliament, but at the recent election his conservative opponent won the seat. The marriage was originally designated to occur about a year hence; but the elder and only brother of young Sartoris, now only twenty-three, was killed, and Miss Nellie's future husband became heir to the entailed English estates, which are of large extent, situated in the West of England, just opposite the Isle of Wight. This made the farm boy a rich heir and resulted in an entire change of the programme. It was decided that their future residence must be in England, and the President consented. Mrs. Grant feels the separation from her only daughter most keenly, and showed it severely during the ceremonies yesterday. The young man has an umblemished character, and is a favorite with all whom he formed an acquaintance during the few weeks he was in Washington. Miss Nellie is remarkable for her sweetness of disposition and gentle, unassuming deportment. They carry away with them the sincere wishes of all classes in Washington, for their future welfare. Mrs. Grant will visit her daughter during the Autumn months. The father and mother went to New York, to-day, to see the young couple off on their way to England to-morrow.

THE MARRIAGE CEREMONY.

About two hundred and fifty invitations were sent out, mainly to relatives and friends of the family; and fully one-half of those invited living in distant States, their attendance was not expected. About one hundred and twenty-five persons were present. It was the wish of the parents of the bride to avoid everything like an official coloring. No member of the Diplomatic Corps was present, excepting Mr. Minister Thornton, the official representative of England.

THE EAST ROOM.

Here I must call in the aid of an eye-witness, who says:

"Plants and cut flowers of various colors were arranged in elegant profusion. In the recesses and corners and about the windows and doors ferns and palms were placed. The pillars that support the ceiling were entwined with evergreens, studded with japonicas and chased with heliotropes and rare blossoms. On the eastern side of the room, and immediately in front of the main entrance, a platform had been erected, extending between the two windows. This platform was about nine inches in height and covered with a Persian carpet of beautiful design. On each side were banks of flowers embedded in moss, and over its centre, pending from the ceiling, was a large bell, wrought of the purest white camelias and suspended by a cord of evergreen twisted and curled to resemble a rope. On each side of this marriage bell, under which the young people were to be united, were wreaths of evergreens, sprinkled with a delicate white blossom. That on the right of the bell contained the letters, "A. C. F. S.," the initials of the bridegroom, while that on the left contained the letters, "N. W. G.," the initials of the bride. These letters were composed of small, delicate and rare white flowers. The handsome glass chandeliers were festooned with ropes of evergreen, studded with red and white roses. A few boquets were placed on the mantels and tables, which completed the floral decorations. The other rooms were also tastefully arranged with flowers.

THE WEDDING GUESTS.

A few minutes before eleven o'clock the members of the Cabinet and their ladies, led by Mr. and Mrs. Fish, entered the East Room and took position on the left and near the platform, and all not already there followed into the room. The guests arranged themselves in two divisions, leaving a broad avenue for the passage of the bridal party to the platform on the opposite side of the room. It was a joyous assembly, quiet in demeanor, easy and natural in behavior, and illumined with smiles of delight that revealed the hearty good wishes entertained for the future happiness of the youthful couple whose nuptials they were present to witness. Rev. Dr. Tiffany now made his appearance upon the platform, and every voice was hushed and every eye strained toward the door by which the bridal cortege was to enter.

ENTRANCE OF THE BRIDE AND GROOM.

The Marine Band, in a room a little distance off, commenced playing, "I think of Thee," and the bridal procession entered the East Room. First came the bride groom, supported by Lieut. Colonel Fred. Grant, in the full uniform of his rank in the army, and who walked on the right of the bridegroom. Then followed the eight brides-maids—Misses Conkling, Frelinghuysen, Porter, Sherman, Drexel, Dent, Fish and Barnes—dressed in white, and moving gracefully forward in couples. President Grant, with the bride on his left arm, followed. Then came Mrs. Grant, flanked by her two younger sons, Jesse and Ulysses. Following them was a small number of the bride's relatives. The bridegroom wore a serious, determined look, as if he were struggling to keep the agitation of the moment from being mirrored on his countenance. Miss Nellie entered with upraised head and intent look. The color had faded from her face, but she betrayed no nervousness, gazing straight before her, with eyes fixed with an intentness that gave dramatic effect to her entree. Her step was firm and confident, and, if you could forget her pale face, no queen ever went to coronation with a more queenly air than Miss Nellie went to meet her bridegroom. The President wore his usual stolid expression, and directed his vision to a point about five paces to the front. Mrs. Grant looked sad, yet there was a loitering smile of joyous pride beaming from her flooded eyes. Mr. Sartoris and Fred. Grant stepped up on the platform, and stood on the right-hand side. The bridesmaids halted when about midway between the door and the platform, the President and the bride passing between them. When about three paces from the platform, Mr. Sartoris stepped down, and, advancing, met the bride and led her to the assigned place, on the left side of the platform, when he surrendered her to the President. Miss Fish stepped up and stood beside the bride, the other attendants forming a semi-circle in front of the platform, and Mrs. Grant and her two sons standing in rear of these.

THE NUPTIALS.

Dr. Tiffany, of the Methodist Metropolitan Church, stepped forward in front of the young couple and united them for life in accordance with the simple ritual of the Methodist church.

A ring was used in the ceremony. Mr. Sartoris repeated firmly after the clergyman. The ceremony was performed by Dr. Tiffany in a feeling and impressive manner, and during its performance several of the young lady friends of the bride were moved to tears. The two principal actors remained motionless throughout the ceremony. The President looked steadfastly at the floor, while Mrs. Grant held her two youthful sons by the hand and, heroically struggled to suppress the mingled feelings of emotion that naturally agitated the maternal breast. Fred Grant gazed on the officiating clergyman just as you would expect to see him gaze if engaged in charging an enemy's battery.

Immediately after the benediction Dr. Tiffany raised the brides vail and kissed her. Her father, mother, and brothers followed, in the order named, when the lady guests pressed forward and presented their greetings and the gentlemen their congratulations.

THE WEDDING BREAKFAST.

The bridal party and guests then proceeded to the State dining-room, wherein was spread a table that has probably never been excelled in this country for richness, artistic skill, and systematic arrangement, and the floral decorations herein were complete. The centre of the table was occupied by the bride's cake, pearly white, crowned with a beautiful white boquet of white, delicate flowers, arranged in the highest style of art. The cake was pyramidal in shape, and from it extended to near either end of the table a decoration of natural flowers. On these, and on a delightful tray of flowers at either end of the table, appeared pretty miniature flags,—red, white, and blue, respectively.

THE BRIDAL PRESENTS.

The presents consisted of the usual variety, and amounted in value, it is said in about $60,000. They were arranged to the President's library, and were minutely inspected by the guests. A very large proportion of them came from friends in Philadelphia, but they included rich presents from New York, Boston, &c.

THE WARDROBE, &c.

The trousseau was mostly selected in New York city, as time would not permit of a full order being sent to Paris; but the laces were selected abroad, and exceed in beauty anything ever seen here. There are two complete sets, one of white lace and the other black. This is the magnificent gift of the President to his daughter.—There are silks of every hue and color.—Each gas-light silk dress is made with two waists—one decolletee, the other high.—There are shawls from India, laces direct from the manufactory of Brussels, parasols with superb ivory handles, muslin dresses with French worked flounces, others with puffs and lace inserting. There are gauzes, grenadines, and hats for every costume, slippers for each evening dress, and the lingerie is so fine and dainty that the sight of it brings delight to every feminine heart that rejoices in delicate embroidery, soft lace, and fine needlework.

Mrs. Conly, of New York city, made the bridal-dress, and most of the others, some forty in number, which have all been packed away in large boxes for travel.

The traveling costume of the bride is of mignonette silk, and camel's hair cloth, skirt of silk, trimmed with flounces and shirrings of silk, and the basque and overskirt of camel's hair, richly embroidered.

Miss Belle Jackson accompanies Mrs. Sartoris to England as dressing-maid.

ENROUTE FOR ENGLAND.

At 12 M. the bride retired to change her dress, the company commencing about that time to leave, and at 1.15 P. M., the couple emerged from the front door, and, with the bride's youngest brother, Ulysses, were driven in the President's four-in-hand team, accompanied by General Babcock, in his carriage, to the Baltimore and Potomac depot, where, at 1.40 P. M., a special palace-car bore them away to New York, whence they will sail to-morrow for England.

ARRANGEMENTS FOR THE PARTY ON SHIPBOARD.

Mr. Sartoris having signified his intention of crossing the Atlantic in the steamship Baltic, of the White Star line, the most extensive preparations are making on that vessel for the accommodation of himself and bride. Captain Charles M. Kennedy has given up his cabin on deck, which he is fitting up as a boudoir for the bride and the ladies accompanying her. The internal fittings have been altered and adorned, and the room, before the upholsterers leave it, will be as handsome a boudoir as is to be found in Fifth avenue, New York. A rich Turkey carpet covers the floor; lace and crimson damask curtains hang at the windows, and from the ceiling are suspended several bronze lamps of an antique pattern. The furniture of this apartment is a lounge, which at night can be turned into a bunk, an elaborately-carved walnut toilet-stand.

State-room No. 1 has also been secured for the party. It is almost as large as three ordinary state-rooms, and is so situated that no motion of the vessel is perceptible to its occupants. The room was fitted up for the accommodation of a party of Englishmen on the last trip of the Baltic. The room has been entirely refitted. Only two of the berths remain, and as these fold up in into a settee the apartment will be used as a reception room. The furniture is of walnut, and consists of two sofas, easy chairs, card-tables, a writing-table, and a liqueur rack. The walls are covered with mirrors, the ceiling is snow-white, relieved with pink, and several statuettes adorn the angles of the room. Mr. Sartoris and his bride will dine with the other cabin passengers their seats being on either side of Captain Kennedy, at the head of the table.

Two to six bottles are warranted to cure Live Complaint.

A WONDER TO HERSELF.

TANKTOWN, Delaware Co., O., March 20, 1873.

To Dr. R. V. PIERCE:

Your Discovery needs only a fair trial and it will do all you recommend it to do and more too. When I was fifteen I caught cold and for twenty-eight years I have been a perfect wreck of disease, and all the medicines and doctors' bills have run up at times to two and three hundred dollars, and never any better but worse, when I gave up all hope last spring of living the summer through. I received one of your Account Books and told my husband after reading it that it was too late to try any further, but he said it was never too late. He went and bought two bottles and found it was helping me very much. Since 1841 I was troubled with Catarrh and Sore Throat, and was almost entirely deaf in one ear and my voice was as dull as could be. There was constant pain in my head. Now my head is as sound as a dollar, my voice is clear and I have used ten bottles of your Discovery. It has cured me of Catarrh, Sore Throat, Heart Disease, Spine Affection and Torpid Liver. My Liver was very bad. My skin was rough. When I put my hand on my body it was like fish scales. Now it is as smooth and soft as a child's. In conclusion I will say I have been well for three months. I am a wonder to myself and friends. This is but an imperfect statement, half as not been told.

Yours with respect. HESTER LACKEY.

CALDWELL'S WINE AND IRON BITTERS!

These celebrated Bitters are pure, safe and reliable; composed of Roots, Barks and Herbs with Citrate of Iron and pure native wine, made from the native grapes of California, the ingredients are choice, strengthening, purifying and life-giving medicinal agents, forming the most healthy and pleasant stimulating tonic and strengthening Bitters for improving the appetite, giving tone and vital energy to the Blood and System. For medicinal purposes, for family use, travelers, voyagers, etc., they cannot be surpassed.

These Bitters are in an eminent degree strengthening, purifying, diuretic, stimulating and nourishing to the whole system, giving new life and activity to every organ and part alike, without that ever recuring reaction that follows the use of most all other tonics and stimulents in the market. For

DYSPEPSIA, AND ALL FORMS OF INDIGESTION. SOUR STOMACH, RHEUMATISM, SCROFULA, AND ALL IMPURITIES OF THE BLOOD, DROPSY, NERVOUS AFFECTIONS, KIDNEY DISEASES, LIVER COMPLAINTS, GENERAL PROSTRATION. AND NERVOUS HEADACHE!

THEY HAVE NO RIVAL AS A MORNING APPETISER.

No other Bitters in the universe can equal them. I lack space for detailing the availability of these Bitters, but will briefly state its general effects upon the human system, as follows:

It absolutely Purifies the Blood. It speedily corrects all morbid changes in the Blood. It equalizes the circulation of the Blood. It regulates the supply and quality of the Blood. It prepares the blood to furnish a proper support to all the vital properties. It enriches the constituents of the Blood upon which the vital energy of the system is dependent. It infuses the proper degree of animal heat in the system. It purges from the system the morbid humors which retard its natural functions. It imparts vilality and elasticity to every organ of the Body. It corrects all derangements, however trivial, which are the first origin of Disease. It promotes the operations of the digestive organs. It improves the appetite and removes all disagreeable feeling after eating. It perfects digestion, rendering it natural and easy. It acts as a mild and efficatious stomachic. It elevates the standard of all the vital forces. It strengthens the nervous fibres and diffuses a calm throughout the nervous system. It destroys all morbid conditions of the mind. It disperses dullness and languor. It promotes buoyancy of spirit and feeling. It banishes those clogs upon pleasure which produce gloom. It drives away those distressing symptoms which rob us of happiness. It revives the physical energies by infusing new life and power into the system. It fortifies the system against the dangers of malaria, fluctuations of the temperature, changes in the climate, &c. In short, it prepares the system for the radical change to be wrought in its condition, and restores it to perfect health and natural vigor.

CALDWELL'S COUGH CURE FOR THE CURE OF COUGHS, COLDS, CROUP, WHOOPING COUGH, CONSUMPTION, BRONCHITIS, DIPTHERIA, ASTHMA, AND THROAT & LUNG DISEASES GENERALY.

If you purchase a bottle of your druggist use it all, and if you make up your mind that you have not received a benefit corresponding with the price paid, return the empty bottle and he will pay you back your money and charge it on his books. Thus neither he or yourself will lose by the operation, as I assure you that it contains nothing that can be injurious in any case.

You are not purchasing it of me a stranger, but of your druggist—a gentleman whom you know and can trust. He will furnish you medicine on the terms I have mentioned; an absolute guarantee—not that it will cure in every case, but that you will be satisfied in the use of that remedy.

CALDWELL'S MAGNETIC CHLOROLOID! FOR MAN AND BEAST.

For internal or external use, the Magnetic Chloroloid is the most wonderful family medicine ever offered to the public, for the cure of HEADACHE, Rheumatism, Colic, Neuralgia, Toothache, Earache, Cramps, Griping, Sprains, Bruises, Scalds, Sores, Concussion, Burns, CHOLERA MORBUS, Asiatic Cholera, Diarrhea, Frosted Limbs, Dysentary, Diptheria, Sore Throat, SUNSTROKE CHILBLAINS, CORNS, AND PAINS OF ALL KINDS.

CALDWELL'S LILY BALM For beautifying the COMPLEXION, REMOVING FRECKLES, ERUPTIONS, SUNBURN, ROUGHNESS AND TAN

If the face is disfigured with BLOTCHES, PUSTULES, FRECKLES, TAN, SUNBURN, &C.

The Lilly Balm will speedily remove the blemish, and impart softness, transperency, a roseate tinge and a pearl-like lustre to the complexion. It is utterly impossible to detect in the beauty it confers, the result of an artificial agent; the fresh and health-like tinge which it developes on the face, neck, hands and arms is unsurpassed by no other toilet article ever offered to the public.

THE LAST NEW BOOK OUT

The subject is all important, yet a puzzling one. It replenishes the Government Treasury and imp verishes the people; makes the rich poor and the poor rich; makes fools of wise men; exhausts the wisdom of Legislation; makes men run mad and women feel sad. The crusade has begun; on to victory. Men or women wanted to canvass every town. Address

Everybody praises the appearance of the JOURNAL building since the windows have been decorated with neat and handsome curtains; and everybody, and "the rest of mankind," go there to buy elegant and cheap stationery.

The track on the East Broad Top Railroad is down as far as Scottsville. The gravel train has been in sight of the village. Tom Keenan is pushing the thing rapidly. If there's two cents in the job, Tom's the man to have it out.

We have been requested to say that a Fireman's Silver Horn will be voted for, at the Baptist Festival, at the Castilian Garden, on Tuesday and Wednesday evenings of this week. Strawberries and Ice Cream will be on hand in large quantities.

N. K. Covert, of the firm of Covert & Heck, of Scottsville, has remodeled his store room in modern style. It looks enticing; besides their increase in business demanded a larger room. Mr. Covert is looked upon as one of God's noblest works—honest and capable.

The Lewistown Gazette is in error, as far as this county is concerned, when it says that a certain Company is one of the largest advertisers. Messrs. Henry & Co., and March & Bro., of this place, advertise to the amount of five dollars to its one, and it pays them too.

David F. Tussey, esq., of Porter township, lost a good horse on Wednesday last. He was descending a hill with two horses attached to a sled, when the sled struck the horses' heels causing them to run, and coming in contact with a fence the leg of one of the horses was broken, and the following day he was obliged to kill it.

All persons, especially the young men of Warriorsmark Valley, who feel inclined in a military direction, are requested to assemble at Warriorsmark on Saturday evening, May 30. Then and there will be held a meeting, and at said meeting the extent of military business done will depend on the interest manifested by all hands.—Tyrone Herald.

We are informed that the school-yard, at Mill Creek, is a perfect eye sore. Why do the citizens not see that it is made as neat and comfortable as their own homes? It could easily be done. Our informant says it is simply disgraceful to have children crawling and clambering over such obstructions as are presented to the view of the passer by.

It is said a very large quantity of iron ore has been discovered on the farm of Charles R. McCarthy, esq., near Saltillo, Clay township. It is supposed to yield at least 70 per cent., and the indications are that there is ore enough on the premises to run two furnaces for ages to come. It is hematite ore, and the Squire is jubilant over the precious discovery.

One thousand Sunday School Scholars in session. We learn that the Sunday Schools of the town will all meet in the New Presbyterian church, on Thursday afternoon, (June 4th), being the second day of the County Sunday School Convention. We cannot imagine a more beautiful sight, than will be presented by this large group of bright and happy faces.

On the 15th inst., W. S. Varner, mill wright, of Porter township, while dressing burrs, at Fisher & Sons' mill, had a piece of steel fly from the end or bit of his pick and lodge in the ball of his eye, where it buried itself. He applied to Dr. Weistling, who removed it, and there is no danger of blindness, which was much feared. Varner thinks the Doctor is a capital hand at punching eyes.

David Jones, esq., formerly of Ebensburg, now of the Cambria Iron Company of Johnstown, whose acquaintance we made many years ago, dropped in to see us on Saturday last. Time has made but little inroad upon him. He superintends, in a general way, the Company's ore mines, and, consequently, his business brings him in contact with our people frequently.

Rev. Hunter, of the Baptist Church, and K. Allen Lovell, esq., left for Washington, D. C., on Thursday evening last, to attend the General Conference of the above named church.—Mr. Hunter requested us to say that he would hold the regular services next Sunday, when he would, quite likely, make a report on the General Conference to his membership.

An effort is being made to introduce Guyot's Geographies into the Common Schools of this place, on the ground of their combining Physical and Political Geography in one book.—An eminent educator says: "In the attempt to combine Physical with Political Geography neither is properly presented nor completed, and, consequently, the books are neither Physical nor Political." There is no better series of geographies extant than Mitchell's, and until something that is really superior is produced we are in favor of our first love.

"Wild Oats" writes us from Mapleton, over date of May 21st, in which he says: "The Mt. Union Times, of the 14th inst., states that Mr. Steward Smeigh, of Perryville, has been appointed ticket agent, at this place. Where the editor got his information we cannot say, but we are happy to inform him that he is mistaken. The agent, Mr. A. Y. Bobb, is absent, on leave, visiting his father, in Wisconsin, and Mr. Smeigh is officiating during his absence. We admit all he says about Mr. S.'s ability, yet we feel confident that the people of Mapleton would be sorry to hear of the change spoken of."

Pat O'Brien to Dennis O'Rafferty.

Oh, Dennis, me honey, I'm weary of life,
I her sich a throuble wid Biddy, me wife,
She's rulin un rackin from mornin till night,
And schwares till me face that she will her the right.

And niver a stitch of the work will she do;
In the name of St. Patrick how will I get through?
For what wid the barins, the cow and the pig,
There's niver a bit of time left me till dig.

There's poor Johnny Doil, who sells lager beer,
His wife will be sheriff for sure the nixt year,
And he has gone crazy, clean out of his head,
He niver gets schlep ony more on his bed.

He's ravin and singin the weary night long,
Womens' Rights! Womens' Rights! is the bulk of his song,
And niver a whit does he know of his wains,
Of coorce he will thriten to knock out their brains.

Now, Dennis, me boy, you've a warm Irish heart,
Some good consolation to me will impart;
But I know you will say, as a matter of coorce,
I must part wid my Biddy and get a divoorce.

Now, Dennis, when you write again
Of bonnie laddies flashin,
Just leave your clumsy brogues at home,
Or toes ye might be smashin.

Yours, forever,
PAT O'BRIEN.

DECORATION.—SATURDAY, MAY 30, 1874.—On each return of the thirtieth of May during the last six successive years, the people of this borough and the vicinity, have paid a generous and enthusiastic tribute to the men whose patriotism and bravery led them to devote their lives to the welfare of their country. This custom, so beautiful in itself, so justly due to those whom it is intended to honor, and so strongly tended to keep alive proper sentiments within ourselves, should not be allowed to fall into disuse. The survivors of the war are not likely to forget or abandon it, yet its observance is not more their duty and perhaps not more their pleasure than of all other citizens. It is designed to make the ceremonies on decoration day strictly civic in their character, to appear as we trust it may ever be our privilege while our country has an existence and a name, in the habiliments of peace. Let our greatest demonstration be that of proper respect and veneration for our grand army that "struck its tents" in the field, advanced along the whole line, and bivouaced at last "on fame's eternal camping ground." We would ask the participation of the entire community, not only in the exercises at the graves, but in the arrangements and preparations that are necessary before that day.

Contributions of flowers will be thankfully received, not only from residents of the borough, but from all parts of the county. The ladies are especially requested to assist and encourage us by liberal donations. They should be sent to the Committee on Flowers, announced below, before 10 o'clock on the morning of the 30th.

The committies thus far appointed are as follows:

On arrangements—Milton S. Lytle, W. K. Burchinell, M. M. Logan, T. W. Myton, W. F. Bathurst, A. Tyhurst and Amon Houck.

On Evergreens—John Wilson, J. H. Boring and G. H. Nash.

On Flowers—W. F. Cunningham, W. K. Crites, J. E. Smucker.

On Music—T. W. Myton, J. J. Hight, Wm. B. Zeigler.

On Funds—W. F. Bathurst, W. K. Crites, M. M. Logan.

On Marking Graves—J. J. Hight, W. F. Bathurst, John Wilson.

The procession will be formed at the Court House, at 1 o'clock, P. M., in the following order:

Chief Marshal—Capt. John Flenner.
Assistant Marshals—J. H. Boring, J. J. Hight, W. F. Cunningham.
Band.
Ministers of the Gospel.
Capt. B. X. Blair, Presiding Officer, and Vice President.
Orators.
Flowers and Evergreens.
Juniata Fire Company.
Independent Hook and Ladder Company.
Huntingdon Fire Company.
Citizens.

The route of the procession will be announced hereafter by the Chief Marshal.

Merchants, mechanics, professional men, and all others, are requested to close their places of business during the afternoon.

By order of the Com. of Arrangements.
MILTON S. LYTLE,
Chairman.

THE HUNTINGDON COUNTY SABBATH SCHOOL CONVENTION.—The Fifth Annual Convention of the Huntingdon County Sabbath School Convention will be held at the Court House, in Huntingdon, on Wednesday and Thursday, June 3rd and 4th.

Entertainment will be provided for all delegates who will notify R. A. Orbison, esq., Chairman of the Committee on Entertainment, on or before the first day of June.

The singing will be conducted by Prof. W. Johnston, of Philadelphia, and arrangements are being made to secure the assistance of other prominent Sabbath School workers.

The Rev. Geo. A. Peltz, of Newark, New Jersey, will be present and take part in the proceedings.

All are cordially invited to come.

GREAT RUSH.—The rush at March & Bro. owing to their giving five per cent. off, has been unprecedented. Their goods are marked as low as any in town, and then they do still five per cent. better for cash. This is a chance that no one wanting good goods cheap should neglect. may20-2t.

THERE is a beautiful assortment of ladies Spring and Summer Shawls at Henry & Co.'s one price store, which they will sell cheaper for cash than can be bought elsewhere.

MARCH & BRO. have just received a large lot of Parasols, of all colors and designs, which they will sell at prices ranging from 30 cents upwards, and still five per cent off to cash buyers. may20-2t.

A LARGE and beautiful assortment of all wool Summer Casimeres, for Boy's and Men, fresh from New York market, very low for cash, at Henry & Co's.

CLOSING OUT.—March & Bro., are closing out a large lot of Clothing, Boots and Shoes, Hats and Caps, extremely low and five per cent. off for cash. All those who want goods come and see for yourselves before purchasing elsewhere. may20-2t.

A BEAUTIFUL line of Straw goods for Children, Boy's and Men, just arrived, and cheap for cash, at Henry & Co.'s

LADIES', March & Bro. have received a new stock of Hamburg edging, and other trimmings. Don't fail to call upon them and see how cheap they sell, and five per cent. off for cash. may20-2t.

COURT PROCEEDINGS.—Etnier and Foust vs. Joseph Green. The plaintiffs in this suit are merchants and reside at Mill Creek in Huntingdon county, Pa. The defendant resides in Milesburg, this county. It appeared from the testimony, that E. H. Green, a son of the defendant, and George Eby, formed a co-partnership in the year 1863, under the name of E. H. Green & Co., for the purpose of operating Mill Creek Furnace. The defendant to this suit is the father of E. H. Green, and was the owner of one-fourth interest in the property. He gave his son the use of his interest if he would pay the taxes and keep it in repair. When the Furnace went into operation the defendant made an engagement with the firm to go there as book-keeper and remained there four years and six months, or till October, 1867, when he returned to his home in Milesburg. Mr. Green frequently visited the Furnace after he gave up the book-keeping and assisted in settling accounts. In 1869 the firm of E. H. Green & Co. became insolvent, and this suit was brought by plaintiffs to recover some four hundred dollars due them from the firm of E. H. Green & Co. They alleged that the defendant by his actions had led the people of that vicinity to believe that he was a general partner; that the firm have obtained credit on that account. A great many witnesses testified that they have conversed with the defendant during the time he was there, that he frequently spoke of his interests, etc. On the other hand the defendant testified that when he alluded to his interests, it was in reference to his share of the real estate and had no reference to the business of E. H. Green & Co.

The plaintiff admitted that they had settled an account with E. H. Green & Co., early in the year 1869, when there was $4100,00 due. That they were not willing to take the firm note without defendant endorsing it, which he consented to do, with Geo. Eby as one of the endorsers; plaintiffs also admitted that it was rumored around that the firm was shakey, etc. Notwithstanding this rumor they continued to sell to the firm after this settlement, although the defendant swore positively that he told them when he indorsed the note for $4100,00 that he was not a member of the firm. The plaintiffs' only hope was to establish a genuine partnership, otherwise their doubts of the firm at the time of settlement was sufficient evidence to defer their claim.

The trial occupied five days. The jury were unable to agree, and were discharged. Woods, of Huntingdon, and Alexander for plaintiffs. Blanchard and Furst for defendant.—Bellefonte Republican.

IMPORTANT TO SCHOOL DIRECTORS.—It is perhaps not generally known that the annual publication of a statement of the financial proceedings and condition of each school board in this State is required by the school law, and that it is the imperative duty of each board to comply with this provision. This published statement should be made by the old boards.

The department will withhold the State appropriation from all districts that fail to make the annual public statement. In order to receive the amount appropriated by the State to each school district, the presidents of the respective boards must appear before a justice of the peace and swear or affirm to the following: That the schools have been open and in operation, according to the requirements of the school law, for the term of five months during the school year; that no teacher has been employed for or had charge of any of the schools in the district during the year specified, who had not at the time a valid certificate from the county superintendent; that the accounts of the district treasurer and tax collector for the year specified have been settled, and statements in full of the financial operations of the district published according to law. This affidavit made by the president must be countersigned by the secretary, both officers of the old board and together with the annual district report, must be forwared by the new board to the proper county superintendent.

The section of law requiring an annual statement is as follows: "It shall be the duty of the board of directors to publish an annual statement of the amount of moneys received and expended, and the amount due from collectors, and setting forth all the financial operations of the district, in not less than ten written or printed handbills, to be put up in the most public places in the district."

In preparing this statement, minute details of all items need not be given.

Secretaries will find a convenient and suitable form of the required annual statement of the district accounts on pages 195 and 196 of the late copy of School Laws and Decisions.

WATER CLOSET PURIFIER.—At this season of the year water closets are apt to become offensive. The best remedy is said to be coperas (sulphate of iron,) being simple eeonomical, easily applied and effective. In the usual opening of the water closet put about one pound of the common copperas of the stores, in crystals. In this form, as it is not very soluble in cold water, it will dissolve by degrees, sufficiently fast to deodorized the same. By repeating the application once a month, there will be no annoyance from the smell.

For cesspools it is equally efficacious; the quantity only is to be increased. For one of the usual size it will require five pounds, in crystals, as above, if the wall is wet; should it be dry, then the coperas must be dissolved in hot water, say five pounds to a bucketful, and repeat monthly.

The article can be purchased at any drug store, for a few cents per pound; is cheaper and pleasanter to use than chloride of lime, carbolic acid, or any other deodorizer.

BURGLARY.—On Monday night of last week, an entrance was effected into the cellar of the store of Nicholas C. Decker, on Penn street, by breaking open the door. The only articles taken were molasses, sugar, and perhaps coal oil. Fortunately there was no communication with the store from the inside, or there might have been considerable loss. On Tuesday morning the molasses was traced to the residence of James Nightwine, and he was arrested and lodged in jail. Molasses was found on his boots, and other traces of the theft were found about the premises. Nightwine was on a "spree" and insists that he had two accomplices, but refuses to give their names. This is extremely doubtful.

HUNTINGDON COUNTY CASES IN THE SUPREME COURT.—The following Huntingdon county cases were heard by the supreme court, last week.

In re Warriorsmark borough—Huntingdon county. Argued. R. M. Speer, esq., for plaintiff in error; S. T. Brown, esq., for defendant in error.

Wharton vs. Douglass—Huntingdon county. Argued. S. T. Brown, esq., for plaintiff in error; R. B. Petrikin, esq., for defendant in error.

Seeds vs. Kahler—Huntingdon county. Argued. R. M. Speer, esq., and R. B. Petrikin, esq., for plaintiff in error; S. T. Brown, esq., for defendant in error.

Houck et al. vs. Ritter—Huntingdon county. Argued. T. H. Cremer, esq., for plaintiffs in error; John S. Blair, esq., for defendant in error.

DEDICATION.—The Lecture and Sunday School Rooms of the new M. E. Church of Mt. Union, will be dedicated June 7. Dr. Darhsiel, of New York, and other eminent ministers will be present. All are invited.

M. K. FOSTER, P. E.

Sixty buckets full of Apple-butter just received at Massey's, and it goes off like hot cakes. It is a capital article, and gives universal satisfaction as a consequence.

From Battle Swamp.

A wi-dy correspondent from the borough of Shade Gap,
Uplifts his thorny cudgel to impart to some a rap,
Whose indecorous nonsense has from time to time appeared
To the detriment of morals and the sciences 'tis feared.

Regardless of remonstrance and unawed by savage looks,
I hasten to repeat the dose of griping fishing hooks;
And if it doesn't operate as physic ought to do,
Let the public take some castor oil to put the buncombe through.

Now to the anxious reader I must candidly confess
My ignorance of "buncombe" in its present fancy dress;
I hope you don't expect so much from me, a verry midge,
Without the kind assistance of a "Webster unabridged."

Although this poet-aster on stale joking don't go much,
I can enjoy one with a point although it be in dutch;
That Yohannes' skull is very thin I haven't any doubt,
I see in every article the brain protruding out.

There are skulls of various thickness in this goodly land I ween.
And the JOURNAL's correspondents carry some a little thin;
But we should not expose each other's weakness, lest some one,
With equal indiscretion may comment upon our own.

Physicians say 'tis healthful to enjoy a hearty laugh;
Philosophers preserve the wheat and throw away the chaff:
But often in the winnowing some golden grains blow o'er,
And shine amid the feathery chaff upon the threshing floor.

Now to conclude this bitter dose I cordially extend
My horny hand to "Timbuctoo" and every other friend
But when I am expected to comply with a stated rule
Be assured you'll hear immediately from

A. BIGGE PRULE.

LOSS BY FIRE.—We are sorry to state that on last Friday morning, the residence of Donald St. Geo. Frazer, esq., in Saxton, Bedford county, was destroyed by fire. A smoke house, near by, took fire during the night, and about two o'clock in the morning, the flames reached the building, reducing it to ashes. Fortunately, the inmates awoke in time to save themselves, but they had no time to save any part of the furniture. Loss, about $3,000, and no insurance. Mr. Frazer has been among us for some time attending to business connected with his profession, as surveyor and civil engineer, and we deeply sympathize with him in his loss.—Osceola Reveille

CENTAUR LINIMENT.

There is no pain, which the Centaur Liniments will not relieve, no swelling they will not subdue, and no lameness which they will not cure. This is strong language, but it is true. They have produced more cures of rheumatism, neuralgia, lock-jaw, palsy, sprains, swelling, caked breasts, scalds, burns, salt-rheum, ear-ache, &c., upon the human frame, and of strains, spavin, galls, &c., upon the animals in one year than have all other pretended remedies since the world began. They are counter-irritant, all healing pain relievers. Cripples throw away their crutches, the lame walk, poisonous bites are rendered harmless and the wounded are healed without a scar. The recipe is published around each bottle They sell as no article ever before sold, and they sell because they do just what they pretend to do. Those who now suffer from rhumatism, pain or swelling deserve to suffer if they will not use Centaur Liniment, white wrapper. More than 1000 certificates of remarkable cures, including frozen limbs, chronic rheumatism, gout, running tumors, &c., have been received. We will send a circular containing certificates, the recipe &c., gratis, to any one requesting it. One bottle of the yellow wrapper Centaur Liniment is worth one hundred dollars for spavined or sweenied horses and mules or for screw-worm in sheep. Stock-owners—these liniments are worth your attention. No family should be without them. "White wrapper for family use;" Yellow wrapper for animals. Sold by all Druggists. 50 cents per bottle; large bottles, $1.00. J. B. ROSE & Co., 53 Broadway, New York

CASTORIA is more than a substitute for Castor Oil. It is the only safe article in existence which is certain to assimilate the food, regulate the bowels, cure wind-colic and produce natural sleep. It contains neither minerals morphine or alcohol, and is pleasant to take. Children need not cry and mothers may rest.

THIRTY YEARS' EXPERIENCE

of an old Nurse. Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup is the prescription of one of the best Female Physicians and Nurses in the United States, and has been used for thirty years with never failing safety and success by millions of mothers and children, from the feeble infant of one week old to the adult. It corrects acidity of the stomach, relieves wind colic, regulates the bowels, and gives rest, health and comfort to mother and child. We believe it to be the Best and Surest Remedy in World in all cases of Dysentery and Diarrhœa in Children, whether it arises from Teething or from any other cause. Full directions for using will accompany each bottle. None Genuine unless the fac-simile of CURTIS & PERKINS is on the outside wrapper. Sold by all Medicine Dealers.

CUT THIS OUT, IT MAY SAVE YOUR LIFE.

There is no person living but what suffers more or less with Lung Diseases, Coughs, Colds or Consumption, yet some would die rather than pay 75 cents for a bottle of medicine that would cure them. Dr. A. Boschee's German Syrup has lately been introduced to this country from Germany, and its wonderous cures astonish everyone that try it. If you doubt what we say in print, cut this out and take it to your Druggist S. S. SMITH & SONS, and get a sample bottle for 10 cents, or a regular size for 75 cents.

Wheat Growing in Nebraska.

This State is now attracting considerable attention as one of the best fields for settlement in the Union. In climate and soil it meets the conditions required for the successful cultivation of all the productions of the temperate zone, and also some of the sub-tropical.

It is not often that corn and wheat thrive equally well in any country; but as it is in Nebraska, corn is the first staple crop, of course; but so soon as the farmer is well settled upon the land, he puts in wheat.—The wheat of Nebraska is in good favor; and in St. Louis and Chicago makes its price average several cents per bushel more than the wheat of the neighboring States can command. In bread making qualities the wheat of Nebraska only ranks second to that of California, with which it does not come into competition.

The agricultural triumphs which have been achieved in Nebraska are the work of little more than ten yeurs, and, as the country is settled, and the position of the farmer becomes easier, wheat ranks higher among the crops of the country. In 1860, when the population was 28,000, the wheat crop amounted to 147,867 bushels, or about 5¼ bushels per head; and in 1870, when the population was 222,000, the the wheat crop was 1,125,086 bushels, or a little under 17½ bushels per head.

The population of 1873 can only be estimated, and therefore it is best not given; but the wheat crop of thot year, (which wis an unfavorable agricultural year,) amounted to 3,000,000 bushels. The record is therefore still one of advancement for the young State; and it is to be remembered that stock raising, fruit culture, corn growing, and all other agricultural work advances equally with wheat raising. Nebraska is therefore a promising State for the settler; and the more especially since it has good markets both east and west and south.

When to Cut Clover.

Some experiments upon the nutritive value of clover hay, are reported by Wagoner, a German. In a field of red clover three contiguous parcels of equal size were measured off. From one the clover was cut, May 22, just before the beginning of the blossom; from the second, June 13, in the full blossom; and from the third, July 1, toward the end of the blossom. The amounts of hay obtained were 85,114 and 128 pounds respectively. The hay was analyzed, and its nutritive value thus estimated. It appeared that the amounts of nitrogenous substances were about the same in all, and that the older hay contained also much larger percentage of crude fibre, and that its ingredients were so much less digestible, that its nutritive value was less than that of the smaller but younger crop. The author recommends, therefore, that clover be cut either when in full blossom, or even before the the beginning of the blossom.

About Tools.

I wish to give a few hints to my brother farmers about tools. Many a one when taking up a hatchet or axe that he is not used to, and after striking the first blow, fails to hit within three or four inches of where he aims, says, well that ax is worthless, and when examined it is found that the edge and handle are a long way out of line. The trouble is, the eye is not parallel with the edge, which, of course, is the fault of the maker. Such should not be purchased. A good plan when buying is to take a piece of wood that will go through the eye, then it is easy to see when the eye and edge are on a line, and those not straight should be rejected. A few articles sent back to the manufacturer, and the fault would soon be corrected. The same may be said of many other tools which farmers have to use. A word to the wise. —Cor. Farm Journal.

Kalsomining.

Eight pounds of whiting and one quarter of a pound of white glue make the right proportions. Soak the glue one night in cold water, and in the morning heat it till perfectly dissolved. Mix the whiting with hot water, stir the two thoroughly together, and have the wash of the consistence of thick cream. Apply warm with a kalsomine brush, brushing it well in and finishing as you go on. If warm skim milk is used instead of whiting, the glue may be omitted. Before the wash is applied all crevices and holes should be stopped with plaster of paris mixed with water. If it is desirable to tint the walls, colors may be procured at any paint store and stirred into the kalsomine wash.

MILK FOR CHILDREN.—Dr. Gardener suggests that young children should be fed on the milk of a farrow cow, since it has not been deprived of its essential ingredients to nourish the year's calf. If any one questions the effect of double attempt at nutrition, let him compare the milk in ordinary use with that of a farrow cow. The latter is small in quantity, thick, redundant in cream of a very high flavor. This is the milk destined to strengthen the bones and invigorate the body.

CLEANING STOVES.—Stove lustre when mixed with turpentine and applied in the usual manner, is blacker, more glossy, and more durable than when mixed with any other liquid. The turpentine prevents rust, and when put on an old rusty stove will make it look as good as new.

FURNITURE POLISH.—Make a mixture of three parts linseed oil and one part spirits of turpentine. It not only covers the disfigured surface, but restores wood in its original color, and leaves a lustre upon its surface. Put on with a woolen cloth and when dry rub with woolen.

DISH FOR THE SICK.—To one teacup of cream take four rolled or grated crackers, one teaspoonful of white sugar, the white of one egg beaten to a froth, with a teaspoonful of jelly of any kind.

Miscellaneous.

TREASURER'S SALE OF UNSEATED LAND IN HUNTINGDON COUNTY.

WHEREAS by an act of the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, entitled, An act to amend an act directing the mode of selling unseated lands for taxes and other purposes, passed 13th of March 1815, and the other acts upon the subject, the Treasurer's of the several counties within this Commonwealth are directed to commence on the second Monday of June, in the year 1816, and at the expiration of every two years thereafter, and adjourn from day to day, if it be necessary to do so and make public sale of the whole or any part of such tract of unseated land, situated in the proper county, as will pay the arrearages of the taxes which shall have then remained due or unpaid for the space of one year before, together with all costs necessarially occuring by reason of such delinquency, &c. Therefore, I, T. W. MONTGOMERY, Treasurer of the county of Huntingdon, do hereby give notice that upon the following tracts of unseated land, situate as herein after described, the several sums stated are the arrearages of taxes respectively, due and unpaid for one year, and that in pursuance of the direction of the aforesaid Act of Assembly, I shall on MONDAY, THE 8TH DAY OF JUNE NEXT, at the Court House, in the borough of Huntingdon, commence the public sale of the whole or any part of such tracts of unseated land, upon which all or any part of the taxes herein specified shall then be due; and continue such adjournment until all the tracts upon which the taxes shall remain due and unpaid, shall be sold.

T. W. MONTGOMERY,
Treasurer of Huntingdon county.

SIMMONS' LIVER REGULATOR!

This unrivalled Medicine is warranted not to contain a single particle of Mercury, or any injurious mineral substance, but is

PURELY VEGETABLE.

For FORTY YEARS it has proved its great value in all diseases of the Liver, Bowels and Kidneys. Thousands of the good and great in all parts of the country vouch for its wonderful and peculiar power in purifying the Blood, stiululating the torpid Liver and Bowels, and imparting new Life and Vigor to the whole system. Simmon's Liver Regulator is acknowledged to have no equal as a

LIVER MEDICINE.

It contains four medical elements, never united in the same happy propyrtion in any other preparation, viz: a gentle Cathartic, a wonderful Tonic, an unexceptionable Alterative and a certain Corrective of all impurities of the body. Such signal success has attended its use, that it is now regarded as the

GREAT UNFAILING SPECIFIC

for Liver Complaint and prinful offspring thereof, to wit: Dyspepsia, Constipation, Jaundice, Billious attacks, Sick Headache, Colic, Depression of Spirits, Sour Stomach, Heart Burn, &c., &c. Regulate the Liver and prevent

TO THE CITIZENS OF PENNSYLVANIA.—Your attention is specially invited to the fact that the National Banks are now prepared to receive subscriptions to the capital Stock of the Centennial Board of Finance. The funds realized from this source are to be employed in the erection of the buildings for the International Exhibition, and the expenses connected with the same. It is confidently believed that the Keystone State will be represented by the name of every citizen alive to patriotic commemoration of the one hundredth birth-day by the nation. The shares of stock are offered for $10 each, and subscribers will receive a handsome steel engraved Certificate of Stock, suitable for framing and preservation as a national memorial.

Interest at the rate of six per cent. per annum will be paid on all payments of Centennial Stock from date of payment to January 1, 1876.

Subscribers who are not near a National Bank can remit a check or post-office order to the undersigned.

Pianos.

PATENT

ARION

COMBINES MANNER'S FOUR

SIMPLIFYING PATENTS,

THE MOST VALUABLE PATENTS EVER USED IN PIANO-FORTES.

PATENT ARION.

REVERSED WOODEN AGRAFFE.

THE COMPOUND REST PLANK.

THE FULL IRON FRAME.

AND THE SUSTAINING IRON BAR.

A FEW REASONS

WHY THE

ARION PIANO

IS SUPERIOR TO ALL OTHERS:

The ARION PIANO-FORTE has greater power than any other Piano-Porte manufactured.

It will Stand in Tune Longer, and in its mechanical construction it is more perfect, and, therefore, more durable, than any instrument constructed in the usual modern style.

The arrangement of the Agraffe, the manner of stringing, the peculiar form and arrangement of the Iron Frame

SUPERCEDES ALL OTHERS.

The use of a bar (which is a part of the Iron Frame on a line with the heavy steel stringing,) gives where most needed, and in this respect all other pianoes fail.

The construction of the WREST PLANK, into which the tuning Pins are inserted, is such that it is impossible for the pins to come loosened, or the Wrest Plank itself to split, as is too often the case in other Piano-Fortes.

The Extraordinary Evenness

throughout the scale, the excellent Singing Quality, the

LENGTH AND PURITY OF VIBRATION,

all go to prove what we claim, viz: that the

ARION PIANO-FORTE

Is the Best Instrument Manufactured.

ALSO

ESTEYS COTTAGE ORGANS,

WITH THE

VOX JUBILANT

AND

VOX HUMANA.

THE NE PLUS ULTRA OF

REED ORGANS,

universally acknowledged to be the BEST Organ made for Sunday Schools, Churches, Parlors and Lodges.

Having more power, with a sweeter tone, than any other Organ in the market notwithstanding the representations of agents interested in the sale of other Organs, we do fully warrant every Organ for the period of five years, (at our own expense.)
